The News.

We have fresh accounts of fires in New York, Baltimore, Sheboygan and Waukesha. The past eight or ten days has been a most disastrous one to insurance companies, scarcely a city seems to have passed unscathed by the terrible flames.

The Orthodox Democratic Doctrine.

A few months ago the Washington Constitution laid down the doctrine respecting the question of slavery in the Territories, as follows:

"The Constitution, according to the decision of the highest tribunal known to this Government, secures to the citizen the right of taking and holding his slaves in any of the territories of the United States. This is the bond, and by it we believe the people of the Southern States are willing to abide.

What is the inevitable deduction which flows from this statement of facts? The Curse of Slavery, if it be a Curse—The Blessing of Slavery, if it be a Blessing—must be alike endured or enjoyed by the people of a Territory, during the existence of the Territorial Corporation or organization.

When it was alleged that this was the doctrine of the Administration party, the democratic organs throughout the North denied the fact with indignation. Now the President authoritatively proclaims it.

And the Democratic organs throughout the North, with rare exceptions, concur in the President's official exposition of the Democratic creed.

The Composition of the Senate Committees.—On this subject there is but one voice from the entire Democratic press of the free States, so far as the press has yet spoken out. The downright Southern secessionism, and barefaced outrage perpetrated in the United States Senate by the utterly unfair and unjust composition of all the important committees in that body have struck with astonishment the Northern Democracy.—Dubuque (Iowa) Herald.

So far as the Democratic press of Wisconsin if concerned, they have not yet "spoken out." We do not remember to have seen in any one of our Democratic exchanges in this State, a protest against the selfish and sectional course of the Southern Democracy.

Philadelphia Offers to Help N. Y.—During the recent fire in New York, intelligence was received in Philadelphia, that Mayor Tiemann had requested aid of the Mayor and fire department of that city.—Great excitement occurred among the Philadelphia firemen, and nearly the whole department volunteered to go. A despatch was received in time; however, stating that the fire was extinguished. The Philadelphia Leader, in speaksng of the subject, says:

The offer of Mayor Henry may have been public spirited and courteous, but a little reflection would have shown that such assistance was not needed. New York has nearly one hundred organized fire companies with engines, including several steam fire engines and hose. The idea of a fire department leaving its own city to take care of itself, while it goes a hundred miles to another city which does not need its services, is a little preposterous."

Appointments at Madison.—Mr. Adolph Cramer, formerly connected with the Atlas of this City, has been appointed Clerk in the office of the new School Land Commissioners.

Mr. C. J. Palmer, former business manager of the Watertown Volkszeitung, has been appointed Clerk in the office of the Secretary of State.

Fires in Racine.—On last Sunday morning a dwelling was burned down on St. Clair Street. It was occupied by Mr. Cleveland and owned by Mr. Jones. No insurance.

The same day a fire broke out in the barn of a Mr. Howland which communicated to Throupe's livery stable, and proceeding south fired two more barns, all four of which were destroyed, and it was with the greatest exertion that the Baker House was saved

Mr. Throupe lost all his hay and grain.

Fire at Waukesha.—Yesterday morning a fire occurred at Waukesha, in a frame building occupied by Mrs. Mary A. Williams, and owned by Wm. Clark. The contents were nearly all saved, but the building proved a total loss. Building insured.

Overreaching Himself.—Last Friday, just as the note of suspension was stuck on the banking-house door of Cook and Sargent, it was observed by an Irish drayman. Taking it for granted that this was an end to Florence money, he hastened home and got his stock of Florence, consisting of a ten-dollar bill. Putting old "Dobbin" to a fast trot, he hurried down to "Germany" and bought a silk handkerchief for 75 cents, receiving in change $9,25. Unfortunately, in his change there was a two-dollar Florence bill. Pat looked at it in consternation, then indignantly handed it back to the merchant, and thus far forgot himself. "Whist, honey," he said, "should ou there a bit. Will ye be after giving me good money instead of that stuff. It isn't worth a 'dom,' for I seed the note on the bank door itself, not five minutes ago." The truth glimmered through the merchant's mind, and he hastily grabbed back his change, leaving Pat his X to reflect over at his leisure. The fact is our Hibernian friend rather overreached himself that time, and was so badly "overtaken" that he did not think to run to some other store till too late.—Davenport Gazette.

Governor Wise, in boasting of the richness of his native State, might have spared Virginia one allusion. Addressing the two hundred he says: "You come back to a nursing mother. * * She has populated the South, she has populated the Southwest. * * Her people have gone to Alabama, to Mississippi, to Louisiana, to Texas, and to Kentucky,"—alluding doubtless to the descendants of the F. F. V.'s who are tilling the rice swamps, the hemp and cotton fields, and sugar plantations of those States. As long ago as 1827, La Fayette was struck with this peculiar fecundity of the "Mother of Presidents" and field hands, and expressed his surprise at the change of complexion of the house servants which had occurred since his previous visit to this country, during the revolution.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

A Cold Snap.—There is a great absence of caloric in the atmosphere hereabouts, if we may be allowed to judge, unless our perceptive faculties greatly deceive us. Greenlanders, Icelanders, and all other "Ilanders" can go to thunder with their "brag weather." We are enjoying a few days just now, in a state of "congiaciation" that would just make an Esquimaux blubber. Saturday the thermometer indicated just sixteen degrees below zero, at sunrise; Sunday it was 26 degrees below; and to-day (Monday) it was 36 degrees below; and to-morrow if it continues to progress in regular Arithmetical Progression it will be 46 degrees, or would if the thermometer was long enough.—Portage City Record, Jan. 4.

Gov. Seward Left for Washington.

Auburn, Jan. 4—3 P. M.

Gov. Seward left this city for Washington, on the 9 o'clock train this a. m.

The New Administration.

The new State Administration consists of the following officers, all Republicans:

Alexander W. Randall, Governor.
Butler G. Noble, Lt. Governor.
Louis P. Harvey, Secretary of State.
Samuel D. Hastings, State Treasurer.
James H. Howe, Attorney General.
Gysbert Van Steenwyk, Bank Comptroller.
J. L. Pickard, Superintendent of Public Instruction.
Hans C. Heg, State Prison Commissioner.

The appointments are all made, with the exception of one or two clerkships in the School Land office, and are as follows:

W. H. Watson is continued as Private Secretary of the Governor, and Rufus Parks, of Waukesha, as Superintendent of Public Property with B. W. Suckow, as Assistant.

In the Secretary's Department, Edward Ilsley, of this city, has received the appointment of Assistant Secretary. The other appointees are Wm. H. Waterman, of Racine, Book-keeper; C. Latham Sholes, of the Milwaukee Free Democrat Auditing Clerk; F. S. Lawrence, of Janesville, Land Office Book-keeper; Chas J. Palmer, of Watertown, Document Clerk; Edward D. Pratt, of Pierce county, Transcribing Clerk; Wm. Pynchoen, of Madison, Clerk.

C. H. Purple is continued as Assistant Treasurer, the other appointees in the Department being: Thos. S. Allen, of Mineral Pt. Bank Clerk; O. G. Scofield, Receiving Clerk; G. B. Holden, Book keeper; W. C. Bradley, Corresponding Clerk; K. J. Fleischer, Assistant Cor. Clerk; Wm. H. Miller, General Clerk.

J. O. Culver of Oconto, is the Assistant Attorney General.

In the School Land Office, James A. Bate is Chief Clerk. The remaining Clerks, as far as appointed are Henry Cordier, Chas. R Tyler, O. U. Aiken, Adolf J. Cramer, Wm. Nelson, F. W. Bird, and E. S. McBride.

In the Bank Comptroller's office, John P. McGregor, of Portage, is Bank Register, with J. F. Vosswinkle Dorselen, of Milwaukee, as Assistant, and Robert Menzies, of Milwaukee, Clerk.

In the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, A. J. Craig, late editor of the Educational Journal, is Assistant Superintendent, and Jordan M. Page, formerly of the Platteville American, Clerk.

L. M. Evans, we understand, has been appointed Assistant State Prison Commissioner.

Such is the new organization of the State Government. We think they will be able to "run the machine."—Madison Jour. Jan. 2.

The Fire at Sheboygan.—We gain some further particulars, from the Sheboygan Times, of the fire on Monday. The flames were first seen bursting from the windows of the store occupied by Jand F. Kuehmstaedt.

The Times says:

The Register's Office was broken into by Charles Meyer, an ex-Register, and with the assistance of others, the books were all saved.

Dr. J. J. Brown and Theodore Lucas broke into the office occupied by the County Treasurer, Clerk of the Court, County Judge, and Sheriff, and made a strong effort to save the books and papers; but the room was so densely filled with smoke that but little was effected. Sheriff Thies arriving at this juncture, we believe, succeeded in saving his papers.

All the papers on file in the Clerk's office were lost, and also all the Court Records prior to 1857.

None of the books or papers belonging to the Probate office were saved.

The Treasurer's most valuable books and papers were in the county safe, and were taken out somewhat blackened, but, we believe, entirely legible.

Nothing was saved from the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

The loss to the county is probably not less that $15,000, and cannot be made up in years, if ever.

The fire is supposed to have originated in J. & F. Kuehmstaedt's store, though in what manner is not known. It was discovered by the smoke issuing from the cellar-grate, by some persons who were going home from a new year's ball. Messrs. Keuhmstaedt's loss is $15,000, including everything not in their safe, and no insurance.

F. Lawrence, stove and hardware dealer, in the same block, had an insurance of about $6,000 on his stock. Loss about $2,500.

A Curious Murder in Boston.—A man named Charles H. Goodhue came into the third police station this morning, about two o'clock, and stated that he had come to give himself up, as he had just killed a woman. He stated that he was in the house of Illfame at No. 39 Spring street, kept by a woman under the assumed name of Harriet Goodnow, but whose right name is Mrs. Harriet J. W. Freeborn. He went into the kitchen, which is in the basement of the house, between twelve and one o'clock this morning, and found the woman (Harriet Goodnow alias Freeborn) eating a piece of chicken at the closet door. He asked her for some money. She had a case-knife in her hand, and, as he states, rushed at him for the purpose of striking him with it. He seized her by the throat, threw her down, and choked her until she was dead. He did not know that she was dead at first, and thought she would recover, but when he found that he had murdered her, he went to the police station and gave himself up.—Goodhue has been committed to the Toombs, and a complaint will be entered in the police court this afternoon. He will be committed to jail to await the verdict of the Coroner's jury. The woman who was murdered has kept this house of ill-fame about five years, and has been three years at 29 Spring street. She took up this business soon after the death of her husband, by whom she had a son, who is now thirteen years old. Her maiden name was Hayes. She was born in Tamworth, N. H. Her father was a school teacher. Her mother now lives in Dover. Goodhue is about 35 years of age, and states that all of his folks are respectable. He expects to take the consequences of his act, but wants it understood that he did not go to the house with the expectation of having trouble. He has asked her for money several times before, and threatened her when she did not give it to him.—Boston Courier, Dec. 27th.

A Woman Frozen to Death.—Coroner James was called on Sunday to hold an inquest on the body of a woman named Mary Deveranx, of Irish birth, who died at No. 33 West Van Buren Street, on Saturday night, having actually frozen to death. She had been sharing the bed of the woman who occupied the above premises, for some nights previous, having no home nor employment. The husband of her charitable hostess coming home on Saturday, and there being no spare sleeping accommodations on the premises, Mary was told she must leave and seek other quarters.

She consented to do so and went, but late in the evening came back, asking leave to sit by the fire. The wretched woman was in liquor, and was left sitting beside the stove. Toward morning some of the family went to the kitchen and found her lying on the floor lifeless and her limbs actually frozen stiff.

The inmates of the house, a man and woman, thinking that she was not dead, took the corpse into bed with them, supposing that they could warm some life into it, but in the morning the corpse was as stiff as ever, with no signs of thawing out. The inmates of the house were in a most abject state of misery at the time the Coroner was present, and had no wood in the house. The Coroner very kindly took the matter into his residence and sent him home with a load of fuel.—Chicago Journal.

In Newark, N. J., a house occupied in part by Mr. Lyons, his wife and seven children, caught fire at 3 o'clock in the morning. The Mercury says that the scene at the fire was heartrending. The agony of the children of Lyon, clamoring for their mother, lost in the burning building, was intense. One of the children, a boy, in escaping from the building, was badly burned. After the building was burned down, a fireman found the remains of Mrs. Lyon, and removed them to an outhouse. The extremities were burned off, and the whole remains were reduced to an almost shapeless mass of charred flesh. The body lay near the front of the building, where it had been prostrated when one of the floors fell.

Seeking New Associates.—Mr. Douglas visited the House to-day, and was warmly greeted by Mr. Keitt, of S. C., with whom he had a long private interview. It is observed and commented upon that he has made a marked change in the political company he keeps since the winter of 1857-8, when he was fighting Lecompton. Then he selected Republicans, in spite of Southern fire-eaters; now he reverses the practice. It is stated to-day, upon high authority, that the majority of Northern delegates to Charleston will be anti-Douglas. There are many prominent anti-Lecompton and anti-Douglas Democrats who rejoice at the fact.

THE CITY.

Boy Wanted.

A good steady boy wanted at the Sentinel Book-Bindery. One acquainted with the business preferred. Apply immediately.

Wanted—A Printer.—We do not know the author of the following, but he or she had a big heart, a lively brain and a good-natured countenance:

"Wanted—a printer," says a cotemporary. Wanted—a mechanical curiosity, with brain and fingers; a thing that will set so many ems a day; a machine that will think and act, but still a machine; a being who undertakes the most systematic and monotonous drudgery—yet one the ingenuity of man has never supplanted, mechanically; that's a printer.

A printer; pet, for all his dissipated and reckless habits, a worker—at all times and hours, by day and by night; setting up in close and unwholesome offices, when gay crowds are hurrying to theatres; later still, when street revellers are gone and the city sleeps; in the fresh air of the morning, in the broad and gushing sunlight, some printing machine is at its ease, with its eternal, unvarying click! click!

Click! click! the polished cubes fall into the stick; the mute integers of expression are marshalled into line, and march forth as immortal print. Click! and the latest intelligence becomes old, the thought a principle, the simple idea a living sentiment.—Click! click! from grave to gay, item after item—a murder, a bit of scandal, a graceful and glowing thought, are in turn clothed by the mute and impassive fingers of the machine, and sent adrift in the sea of thought. He must not think of the future nor recall the past: he must not think of home, of kindred, of wife, or of babe. His work lies before him, and thought is chained to his copy.

You know him by his works, who read the papers, and are quick at typographical errors; whose eye may rest on this mute evidence of ceaseless toil; correspondents, editors and authors, who scorn the simple medium of your fame, think not that the printer is altogether a machine. Think not that he is indifferent to the gem of which he is but the setter. Think not a subtle ray may not penetrate the recesses of his heart, or the flowers he gathers may not leave some of their fragrance on his toil-worn fingers. But when you seek friend, companion, adviser—when you would elevate one who, from sympathy, may fitly represent either or both—when you want judges, governors, and presidents, O, ye people, advertise: "Wanted—a printer."

A Convention of the Wisconsin Fruit Growers' Association, and its annual meeting, will be held, in Metropolitan Hall, at Whitewater, on Thursday and Friday the 19th and 20th inst's. The meetings will be held on Thursday at 2 and 7 o'clock p. m., and on Friday at 9 o'clock a. m. and at 2 o'clock p. m.

The object of the convention will be to obtain a full discussion of various topics of special interest to those engaged in the cultivation of fruits in this State, such as the value of different varieties considered with reference to their quality, hardiness and productiveness—the best methods of planting and cultivation—the best methods of protecting trees and vines against the severity of our winters—the best remedies against insects injurious to the orchardist, etc., etc.

The experience of the last few years has demonstrated that, notwithstanding the rigor of our climate, fruits of the finest quality may be grown here, and a leading object of the Convention is to determine from the experience of its members a list of those varieties that may be depended upon as hardy, excellent, and productive. With such a list, it is anticipated that, in spite of the discouragements of the past, the planting and cultivation of fruit trees will again be entered upon, prosecuted with a spirit that will soon render us independent of other States for the supply of the fruits we consume.

Fruit growers throughout the State are cordially requested to bring specimens of their fruits to the Convention, and to participate in its proceedings.

Communications are respectfully solicited from those who may be unable to be present.

A. G. HANFORD, Pres.
Chas. Gifford, Sec'y.
Milwaukee, Jan. 3d, 1860.

The Monthlies.—We have received the first numbers of Harper and the Atlantic from Strickland & Co. The former commences the year with great improvements. Its engravings are better, and there are more of them. Thomas Francis Meagher's paper on Costa Rica is one of the most readable magazine articles it has been our good fortune to get interested in this year. Then there is a batch of "Rural Pictures," by the inimitable "Porte Crayon," much better artistically than literary-ly. The "Drawer" is crammed to overflowing with the choicest dainties, and the "Table" is covered with facts and papers of abiding interest. Now is the time to subscribe for this favorite magazine, and to do so, go to Strickland's, where you will find all the latest periodicals and publications.

The Atlantic for January contains Our Artists in Italy; Fitz James O'Brien's Amber Gods; Song of Nature; Nemepholy; Substance and Shadow; Through the Fields to St. Peters; The Experience of Absalom Felbhaster; Rosa de Roma; and a quantity of other matter. The first installment of the Professor's story also appears, and promises to command greater attention even than the Autocrat.

Strickland will also accommodate you with the Atlantic or any other magazine known to the public.

Items in Brief.—A Cincinnati paper states that they have a man there with such a powerful memory that the Humane Society has engaged him permanently to "Remember the Poor."——A sprinkling of snow every night will eke out our sleighing until February.——One of the editors of the La Crosse Republican is in Chicago talking severely about Milwaukee to everybody.——We see they are about to bring out the "Octaroon" in Chicago; where will they get a Bonnicault to do the advertising?——The Neenah Democrat discontinued its existence recently, owing to the scarcity of vital spondulics.——The Free Democrat announces the recovery of Mr. Wettstein, who, it will be remembered, fell some time ago, and was seriously injured.——The opera of the Swiss Family will be performed at Market Hall to-night.

Characteristic.—Here is the way Clodius speaks of the marriage of L. L. Crounse, one of the proprietors and editors of the Free Democrat:

Hymenial.—It will be seen upon reference to the marriage notices, that one of the city newspaper reporters has recently joined the brotherhood of Benedicts.

If the Wisconsin's reporter had said, "one of the hands employed on a daily paper," his contemptibly envious spirit would have been a trifle more apparent.

Raymond (of bivalvular notoriety) is still supplying our best families with the conchifera luxury, belonging to the tribe ostreacæ, and known to the unlearned as oysters. In spite of the cold weather he can supply the town with the real genuine first quality bivalves at a moment's notice. We eat Raymond's oysters in preference to any one else's—that is when we can get them! So does our wifeses.

St. Paul's Church.—We find the following in the last Chicago Church Record:

We learn that the Rev. Dr. Ashley, of Buffalo, has received a call to the Rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Milwaukee, and that there is a strong probability of his acceptance. His character and ability are just such qualifications as are needed to fill so responsible a position as the Rectorship of this large and important parish, and his advent to the Northwest will be hailed with joy by a large number of warm friends and admirers.

Quartette Club.—A gentleman with a tenor voice, desirous of forming an amateur quartette club for mutual recreation and capable of reading ordinary music, is requested to address "W. W. C." at the Sentinel office.

Change of Time.—The Racine and Miss. R. R. time table has been changed. We call attention to the alteration in the advertisement.

Milwaukee City Insurance Stock.—J. S. Fillmore has ten shares Milwaukee City Insurance Co. Stock for sale cheap.

Caleb Wall offers to exchange goods for city property or for a small farm. Read his advertisement this morning.

New Publications.—The "Diary of a Samaritan, by a member of the Howard Association," Harper & Bro. Mrs. Mary Howitt's History of America, Illustrated; Harper & Bro. Chamber's Encyclopedia, No. 9; Yankee Notions for February 1860; Monthly Novelette for February 1860.—Everything that is new can be had at No. 25 Wisconsin street.

Annual Election of the Milwaukee Light Guards.—At the annual election of the Milwaukee Light Guards, on Tuesday evening, Col. King presiding, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Captain.—J. C. Starkweather.
First Lieut.—A. R. Chapin.
Second Lieut.—G. B. Bingham.
Third Lieut.—E. P. H. Gardiner.
First Serg't.—G. E. Bingham; 2d Serg't. John C. Goodrich; 3d Serg't.—T. H. Schuyler; 4th Serg't.—C. C. Meservey.
First Corporal—W. H. Starkweather; 2d Corp'l—C. B Allen; 3d Corp'l—E. B. Parsons; 4th Corp'l.—T. S. West.
Commissary—W. S. Eliot,
Secretary—C. C. Meservey.
Treasurer—W. H. Starkweather.

The attendance of members was large, and much interest was manifested in the selection. Lieut. D. W Keyes, who was first Lieutenant of the company, last year, declined a re-election, in consequence of his business engagements. A vote of thanks was given to him for the manner in which he had discharged the duties of his office during the past year.

After the business meeting was over, the members of the M. L. G. partook of an excellent collation in their armory, prepared under the auspices of Commissary Elliot.

Going up the River.—The great steamer Milwaukee is slowly making her way up the river, passing Clark street yesterday. The ice is broken away before her bow a little distance, her engines are then set in motion, and she walks through the ice like a thing of life. She is a splendid boat—but Lake Michigan is a little too much for her in the winter time.—Chicago Democrat of yesterday.

Except during a few days of the extremest cold weather, the navigation of Lake Michigan is both safer and pleasanter, during the Winter months, than in the Fall, or Spring. It is very seldom that we have any high winds at this season, and there were but two or three days during the month of December just past, that ordinary steamers, or propellers could not make the transit between Milwaukee and Grand Haven easily and comfortably.

The Summerfield M. E. Church was elegantly trimmed for the wedding on Monday evening last. The whole affair passed off with much eclat. The bride, (Miss Jones,) is the daughter of B. B. Jones, Esq., a principal shipwright of this city. His employees, to the number of forty, rigged a yawl boat on runners, with four horses to draw it, and the stars and stripes flying overhead, and attended at the church. They afterwards called upon the bride and were feasted to their hearts' content.

Jose Julio is recognized as Vice Consul at Savannah.

The names of the absentees from the House to-day, who had not been paid off, were Messrs. Reynolds, Vallandigham, Sickles and Pendleton. Their absence was accidental, and causes satisfaction.

The select Committee of the House of Representatives of Florida appointed, in consequence of the circular of the N. Y. Chamber of Commerce, calling the attention of planters to the great increase of sanded cotton, believe that the complaints this year are without foundation, and recommend to the chamber a thorough investigation into the mode of selling cotton in New York, and that steps be taken to compel commission merchants there to sell each planter's crop on its own merits, as the surest remedy not only for sanded cotton, but also defrauding one planter at the expense of another.

Concord, Jan. 3.

The Republican State Convention held here to-day, was presided over by Frederick Smith.

Goodwin, the present Governor, was nominated for re-election by acclamation. J. G. Tilton was nominated for R. R. Commissioner.

Senator Hale addressed the Convention, which was largely attended and harmonious.

Yesterday, an engine with a snow-plow attached, ran into a passenger train between Manchester and Nashua, party demolishing the rear car and slightly injured two or three passengers.

Congressional Proceedings.

House.—Washburne of Ill., called attention to a letter he had received from a contractor in Rockville, Ill., in which the writer states that a bad state of things exists, owing to the failure to pay the mail contractors. Mr. Washburne wished to say to the contractors that he did not consider himself responsible for their distress. Mr. Washburne wished to say to the contractors that he did not consider himself responsible for their distress. Mr. W. washed his hands of all responsibility. No speeches had been made by his side of the House—they desired an organization.

Mr. Barksdale asked whether the gentleman would consent to a temporary organization, in order that the bill could be passed.

Mr. Washburne replied that when Mr. Houston offered the resolution, he, Washburne, proposed to fill the blank with the name of John Sherman, but the Democrats objected.

Mr. Houston showed the insecurity of Mr. Washburne and his friends. He treated this, Washburne's, proposition with the

THE SENTINEL.

DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY.

RUFUS KING, EDITOR.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 5, 1860.

A Free Country.

Technically, the United States constitute a free and independent country, where liberty of thought, speech, and action, is supposed to be tolerated. The actual fact, however, is that freedom of opinion on certain contested topics, is not only not permitted, but is practically forbidden. A striking illustration of this fact is to be found in a recent number of the Petersburg (Va.) Press. Mr. ALFRED CALDWELL, a man of high character and much intelligence, and a member of the Virginia State Senate, from the Wheeling District, is one of the Republican National Committee, was present at their late meeting in New York, and signed the call for the assembling of the National Republican Convention in June next. For this high crime the Virginia paper takes Mr CALDWELL to task as follows:

> We have no words to waste on the perfidy of this man. It is not difficult to perceive that the Senate of that State owes it to its own dignity, to the sentiment of the people, and the just expectation of our sister States of the South, to purge itself of the disgrace which a further presence of Caldwell would impose on its immediate exposition. The ninth section of Art 10, of the Constitution of Virginia, gives power to each House of the General Assembly to expel a member, by a two-thirds vote, and there can never arise a better occasion for the exercise of the prerogative.
> If, however, there should be found technical difficulties in the way of an expulsion, then it is the bounden duty of every patriotic Virginian in Richmond, whether within or without the Capitol, to place the traitor under the usual social exclusion. Let him not be spoken to, or even noticed in the House or out of the House, and let the Senate and city bear the nuisance until the people of the Wheeling district shall have the power to visit on their heads the punishment due to their disloyalty, by consigning Alfred Caldwell to private or political oblivion.

It is possible that the Senate of Virginia, or the people of Richmond, may be so infatuated as to follow the counsels of the Press.—We will not, however, believe it until we see it. Mr. CALDWELL'S whole offence consists in his well-founded convictions that Virginia would be infinitely the gainer by the abolition of Slavery and the substitute of Free, for Slave Labor. That opinion prevails very generally throughout Western Virginia, where slaves are comparatively few and unprofitable. Mr. CALDWELL entertains precisely the same sentiments on this point that GEORGE WASHINGTON, THOMAS JEFFERSON, JAMES MADISON, and other Virginia worthies have left on record. Yet he is denounced as a Traitor, and the Senate of Virginia, and the "best society" of Richmond are invoked to brand and punish him as such. How much will the "peculiar institution" be strengthened, even in Virginia, by that sort of process?

A NORTHERN POSTMASTER TURNED CENSOR.—It is stated that under the late decision of Postmaster General Holt, Mr. Jesse Thorn, Postmaster at New Market, Middlesex county, New Jersey, has refused to mail Abolition documents, and especially Helper's Impending Crisis, which is to be delivered from his office.—Philadelphia North American.

The New Jersey P. M. will prove a thorn in the side of Sham Democracy. The rule which he is attempting to enforce was only calculated for Southern latitudes. It is bad enough there, but to attempt to put it in practice among the Jersey Blues will be indignantly rebuked. LOUIS NAPOLEON might borrow a useful hint from the Democratic administration of the P. O. Department.—He has but to follow in the footsteps of P. M General HOLT, and give his subordinates unlimited discretion to search the mails, and suppress all "incendiary" matter, to make it certain that no letter, paper, or document, reflecting in any way upon the Imperial Government shall ever reach its destination.

VIRGINIA STILL BELLIGERENT.—Notwithstanding the recent Union-saving speech of Gov. WISE to the runaway Doctors, his organ, the Richmond Enquirer, still clamors for war. The Enquirer not only insists that the election of a Black Republican will be the signal of Disunion, but that this contingency must be prosecuted by force of arms.

> "To permit the sectional leader," exclaims the Enquirer, "to possess himself of the Federal Government would be to consent to an act of violation of constitutional faith, and to arm our open and avowed enemies with the weapons framed by our forefathers for our defense, and not for them by our sufferance to make the assault. The South will have made a fatal mistake if she arms herself with the powers of the Federal Government, and then begins the work of Disunion; but, by resisting, prevent the Black Republicans from committing the overt act which constitutes Disunion. The South will resist by arms 'the voice of the majority under the forms of the Constitution,' when that 'voice' calls to power men who have proclaimed the 'irrepressible conflict.'"

We know not how this vaporing talk may impose upon "the Chivalry," but at the North it is very generally and very justly regarded as brutum fulmen.

LUXURIES.—In the State of Ohio, according to the recent census, there are 290,801 carriages, 85,683 watches, 8,352 piano fortes. These numbers have been ascertained with a view of taxation: the values compared with the previous year being as follows:

	1859.		1858.
	No.	Value.	No.	Value.
Carriages	290,801	$10,248,925	284,431	$10,023,275
Watches	85,683	1,651,165	81,022	1,611,965
Pianos	8,352	1,186,195	7,692	1,020,860

The valuation is a low one, viz: $35 for each carriage; $20 for each watch; $134 for each piano forte. At the United States census for 1850, Ohio had, within a fraction, one-tenth of the white population of the whole country. Assuming it to be so now, and that Ohio is a fair criterion of the other States, as to the quantities or numbers of the above articles in use, we may assume that in the whole country there are now the following numbers of these articles, at a gross value of:

United States.	Number.	Value.
Carriages	2,900,000	$103,350,000
Watches	850,000	16,000,000
Piano fortes	83,000	11,000,000
		$130,167,000

The amount at present invested, and annually increasing, in watches, jewelry, plate, &c., may be estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars in the United States. Some manufacturers estimate the annual least quantity of gold and silver used in the Arts, at upward of five millions, in this country alone.

PROMPT PAY FOR TEACHERS AT RACINE.—The Advocate informs us that the paying off of the corps of teachers employed by the Board of Education of Racine, took place at the High School Building on Saturday last. After the usual exercises of the normal department were concluded, the city treasurer and comptroller came forward with the cash, and paid up, in full, every teacher's wages to the last day of December, 1859. Where is the next city in the State that has done the same? says the Advocate.

LA CROSSE LAND GRANT BONDHOLDERS.—The N. Y. Tribune of the 5th December, publishes the following item:

> A meeting of La Crosse Land Grant bondholders was held yesterday, but nothing of importance was accomplished. Mr. Potter, Attorney for the Trustees, made an unfavorable statement of the Road. He stated that foreclosure proceedings had been commenced, that only one third of the right of way had been paid for, and that the road would not earn running expenses this winter. Consequently he should not apply for a Receiver until next Spring.

COMPLIMENT FROM A CROWNED HEAD.—The King of Denmark has presented to the N. Y. State Library a copy of LEPSIUS' work on Egyptian and Ethiopian Antiquities, taken from the Royal Library of Copenhagen. Hon. J. V. L. PRUYN, Chairman of the Library Committee, has made an appropriate acknowledgement.

FIRES IN NEW YORK CITY.—During the year just closed there were 208 fires in the City of New York, involving the destruction of seventeen millions! worth of property. At 51 of these fires, life, as well as property, was destroyed; the whole number of lives lost during the year being 112.

CLAY STATUE.—The statue of HENRY CLAY, by HART, was shipped from Havre, for New Orleans, on the 5th of November, and will be inaugurated with great ceremony on the 12th April next.

REVIVAL.—We learn that an awakening has taken place at the M. E. Church in this place, and that daily evening meetings are held. Several persons have become converted, and some have expressed a hope of conversion.—Jackson Co. Banner.

Railways in England.

A recent English Parliamentary return gives some most remarkable facts respecting English railways. The longest line is the London and North Western, 910 miles, and North Eastern next, 746 miles. Eight railroads have each their terminus in London, and their gross receipts are close upon a million of dollars per week. Upwards of nine thousand miles of railroad is now in use in Great Britain, the gross receipts of which, from freights and passengers, amount to nearly two millions and a half of dollars per week, or one hundred and twenty-eight millions per annum. The Philadelphia Press makes the following summary of the financial condition of the English Railroads:

> The whole amount of the capital and loans authorized to be invested in railways previous to the last day of 1858, was £392,682,755. All this vast sum has been raised, and most of it expended, since 1826—a comparatively short period of thirty years.—Some of our readers may better understand this sum total when they discover that it amounts to $1,863,413,995. As much as £181,837,781 (equal to $909,188,904) of the capital was not received, nor entitled to receive any preferential dividend or interest. The total dividends on the share capital amounted to £6,161,099, (or $30,805,495,) but preferential dividend or interest was payable to the amount of £81,854,547, or $409,272,735.
> The debts of British railways, at the close of 1858, amounted to £81,683,179, ($408,415,895) and the interest payable thereon is £3,591,148.) or $17,955,740.) The whole amount which the railway companies had actually raised, to the end of 1858, by shares or loans, was £325,375,507, but there remained £67,307,258 which they have power to raise, either by existing or new shares, or by loans—the whole, received and receivable, amounting to £325,375,508, (or $1,963,413,755) of capital invested in British railways—from 1828 to 1858, both years inclusive. The total amount expended on railway Works and rolling stock during these thirty years, and out of this capital, was £287,800,208, or in American money $1,439,001,040. Add to this the money which the various companies can yet raise, and which they will one day call for, and the difference between the sum expended on railways and that which may be raised, amounts, in round numbers, to over thirty-five millions of pounds sterling, or $175,000,000, all of which has been wasted in parliament and law cost of obtaining the statutes organizing the different companies which have constructed all the British railways. This amount seems enormous. So it is, but it has been so expended.
> Besides English money invested in British railwayism, a great deal of railway stock in railways all over the world is in English hands.

ENGLISH POST-OFFICE STATISTICS.—The annual Report of the Postmaster-General of Great Britain and Ireland is published. It states that the number of letters delivered in the United Kingdom during the year 1858 was 528,000,000, showing an increase of nineteen millions over the preceding year, and an increase, as compared with the year previous to the introduction of penny postage (1849) of 417,000,000, making a seven-fold increase of letters within less than twenty years!

The increase is the more remarkable when it is considered that England is not like the United States, a young and growing country. The great increase of letters is not produced, therefore, by increase of population or of popular intelligence. These have their influence, but the main cause is the sagacity with which the Post-Office is managed.—Everything is done to secure safety, cheapness and despatch. The rates of postage are put down to the lowest possible point. The letters are promptly delivered personally to those to whom they are addressed. Those which fail to find their destination are returned to the writers. No tedious or unnecessary delays are allowed. Letters are transmitted to the farthest point in the Kingdom more rapidly than they here pass between two adjoining cities. A system of registering letters is adopted, which means something, and affords some security, not a purely irresponsible system like ours. A money-order system is adopted, also, by which small remittances can be safely made. There were 6,989,396 money-orders issued during the year 1858, covering an amount in the aggregate of over $61,000,000.

All these things require a little extra care and trouble,—more than our Government thinks it worth while to bestow on its Postal arrangements. But they bring a rich reward in the shape of a handsome revenue, while our system, which charges more money for less work, is productive of an annual deficiency.—Albany Evening Journal.

STEAM FIRE ENGINES.—The New York Journal of Commerce speaks very highly of the efficiency of the Steam Fire Engines, as displayed at the great fire in Beekman Street last week. The Journal says:

> When every hand engine was clogged with ice, and the firemen were so stiff with cold that they could hardly clasp their fingers on the brakes, the steam apparatus worked on without cessation and with undiminished power. Although every engine in the 7th and 8th districts was on the ground, it is not too much to say that the "Niagara" and "Manhattan" did as much useful work as all of them put together. Towards the close of the fire, when the hand engines had given out, the well directed streams of the steam apparatus saved a block of buildings in Fulton street, which would otherwise have been consumed.

CONGRESSIONAL "GROGGERY."—The correspondent of The Philadelphia North American, writing from Washington, says:

> The groggery in the House Post Office is still in full operation, and whiskey runs free to all who have votes in electing the officers of the House. How many are to be purchased with "drinks" we shall be better able to judge after the election. A groggery and restaurant had existed in a basement room of the Capitol for some years previous to the commencement of the XXXth Congress; but no sooner was Mr. Winthrop elected Speaker of that Congress than he gave an order to the Sergeant-at-Arms to clear the groggery out forthwith, and it was promptly executed. Now a free groggery is established on the same floor, and within a few steps of the Hall.

RAILROAD AND STEAMBOAT ACCIDENTS IN 1859.—The number of Railroad accidents in the United States in 1859, by which life was lost, was 79; killed 129; wounded 411. This does not include accidents caused by the carelessness of travellers themselve. During the last seven years the number of lives lost by rail road accidents has been as follows:

Year.	Accidents.	Killed.	Injured.
1853	131	284	496
1854	163	156	559
1855	142	116	339

1858	82	119	417
1859	79	129	411
Total	903	1,109	3,611

The number of steamboat accidents during the year 1851 is 21, persons killed 252, wounded 146. This is a decrease from those of the past year. For the past seven years the number of lives lost and persons injured by steamboat accidents, not including those which occured as sea, were as follows:

An Irishman's Sufferings in South Carolina.

From the N. Y. Independent.

The Northern newspapers have recently published a brief paragraph from the Charleston Mercury, announcing, in a very nonchalant style, that a workman engaged on the State House, in Columbia, S. C., was recently seized by a mob on account, as was alleged, of holding anti-slavery opinions, and that he received twenty-nine lashes, and was tarred and feathered, and escorted out of the State!

It took a very few lines to tell this story, according to the Southern press; for it is a trait of Southern chivalry, first to practice cruelty, and then to suppress the facts.

We have seen this unfortunate man, and heard his story, and looked at his wounds. His name is James Power. He is an intelligent young man, about twenty-three years of age, a native of Wexford, Ireland, and a stone-cutter by trade. He went from Philadelphia to the South and obtained employment in Columbia, where he had worked for nine months.

The only opinion he ever expressed against Slavery was that it caused a white laborer in the South to be looked upon as an inferior and degraded man. But this was enough! The remark was reported to the Vigilance Committee, (composed of twelve members,) who immediately ordered the police to arrest him. He was seized two miles away from town, in attempting to escape. He was brought back, and put in a cell, where he remained three days, during which time he was denied the use of pen and ink, and all communication with his friends outside.

At length he was taken before the Mayor. Four persons appeared and bore testimony to the remark he made. The evidence was conclusive. He was returned to prison, and was kept locked up for six days. During this time, he was allowed only two scanty meals a day, and the food was carried to him by a negro. He was then taken out of jail in the custody of two marshals, who said to him:

"You are so fond of niggers, we are going to give you a nigger escort."

He was led through the main street, amid a great crowd, hooting and yelling, the marshals compelling two negroes to drag him through the puddles and muddy places of the street, and of the State House yard! As he was taken past the State House, three members of the Legislature, including the Speaker, stood looking on and laughing:—The crowd gradually increased until it numbered several thousand persons, headed by a troop of horse.

After a march of three miles out of the city to a place called "the Junction," the procession was stopped, and preparations were made for punishment. The populace cried "Brand him!" "Burn him!" "Spike him to death!" and made threats against his life by pointing pistols at his head, and flourishing sticks in his face.

The Vigilance Committee ordered him to strip himself naked, and forced a negro to assist in taking off his clothes. A cowhide was then put into the negro's hands, who was ordered to lay on thirty-nine lashes, (not twenty-nine, as reported,) and to draw blood with every stroke. Our informant describes the pain of this infliction as exceeding in severity anything which he ever suffered before. His back and lower limbs are still covered with the scars of the wounds!

A bucket of tar was then brought, and two negroes were ordered to rub it upon his bleeding skin, and to cover him from head to waist. His hair and eyebrows were clotted with the tar. After this part of the ceremony was concluded, he was covered with feathers. His pantaloons were then drawn up to his waist, but he was not allowed to put on his shirt or coat. He was conducted in this exposed condition, amid the shouts of the populace, to the railroad train, and was put on board the negroes' car. The engineer blew a continuous blast on his whistle to signalize the performance.

A citizen of Charlestown on the train, who saw the poor fellow's unhappy condition, stepped into a neighboring hotel, before the starting of the cars, and brought a cup of coffee and some biscuits to relieve the sufferer's faintness. It was a timely gift, and gratefully received. But the Southern chivalry gathered around the Southern gentleman, and threatened him with summary vengeance if he repeated his generosity. The exasperated crowd detained the train, and called for more tar and feathers, for a further infliction upon their bleeding victim. More tar was brought, more feathers could not be found; and after fresh tar was applied, cotton was stuck upon it instead!

When the train started for Charleston, the mob bade him good-bye, and told him that when he reached this city he would receive 130 lashes. At every station between Columbia and Charleston, the engineer blew a prolonged whistle, and gathered a mob to add fresh insults to the wounded man. At length, on arriving, he was met by the police, conveyed to prison, and detained in his cell for an entire week. Here he received for the first time soap and water to wash off the tar, and oil to soften his sores. A mob several times threatened to break into the prison to carry him out into the street, and make a public spectacle of him a second time. But he was kept closely confined. A physician called to see him, to examine his wounds, who told him that his case was a mild one, comparing it with that of a man who was then lying in the City Hospital from the effects of five hundred lashes which had almost put an end to his life!

On Saturday morning last, at seven o'clock, the poor workman was taken from prison, and conducted quietly on board the steamer for New York. He arrived in this city on Monday last, where he is still staying, recovering from the effects of his ill-treatment, and looking for work, which we hope he may find.

We have only one comment to make on this case. This man informed us that, in common with the great mass of Irishmen in this country, he had always voted with the Democratic party. He had long known in Philadelphia that the Democratic party upheld Slavery, but he never learned, until he went to South Carolina, that Slavery crushed the white laborer, and that the Democratic party, in upholding Slavery, is therefore the enemy of Irishmen, who are a nation of laborers. In the Southern States, work is looked upon as dishonorable, and workmen degraded. This is what an Irish stone-cutter learned while cutting stone in South Carolina. We hope the lesson of his experience may reach the ears of his countrymen!

The Population of the State.

We are indebted to W. H. Russell, Esq., of the Secretary's office, for the following table, which shows the actual vote of the State at the last election on Governor, as the returns were presented by the several counties, and before the rejection of any by the State Board on account of informalities.—Mad. Patriot.

Table showing the number of votes cast for Governor at the General Election, held on the 8th day of November, 1859, together with an estimate of the population of the State of Wisconsin, taking one voter to 4 inhabitants as a basis.

Special Notices.

Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!!!
What is it? How Cured?

DYSPEPSIA IS OUR NATIONAL DISease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habits, bilious condition. How many suffer with it and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstructed head, and attacks of the headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestion and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases.—This is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head, and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

Price 25 cents per box, with directions. Six boxes $1.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty remedies, in large vials, and morocco case, $5; do, in plain case, $4. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $2.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address,

Beyond the calming and the fretting,
Beyond remembering and forgetting,
I shall be soon;
Love, rest, and home,
Sweet home!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the parting and the meeting,
I shall be soon,
Beyond the farewell and the greeting,
Beyond the pulse's fever beating,
I shall be soon;
Love, rest, and home,
Sweet home!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the frost chain and the fever,
I shall be soon;
Beyond the rock-waste and the river,
Beyond the over and the never,
I shall be soon;
Love, Rest, and Home,
Sweet Home!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

THE WIFE CURER.

BY B. P. SHILDABER.

"Been up to the country?" I queried, as I met my friend Burner in the street a few days since. I hadn't seen him for sometime and he looked sunburnt and rough, as if he had been exposed to the country sun. He informed me that he had, and that he had been to visit Tim Somers, a mutual friend of ours, who had moved away from town many years before. After inquiries concerning his visit, and his enjoyment during the warm months, conversation reverted to our old friend.

"I never was more surprised in my life," said Burner, "than I was to see him in the depot at Ramshead. I had quite forgotten that he was located there."

I informed him that I had also forgotten it, though I believed his wife's relatives were living there.

"His wife's—yes—yes," continued Burner; "singular woman that; did you know her?"

"Yes," I replied; "she is a little, bustling, talkative thing; full of fun and chat, and making her house merry by the music of her voice. Nice little woman."

Burner looked at me a moment, and burst into a laugh to my great wonderment. I requested him in a tone of chagrin, to inform me what the deuce he was laughing at.

"Talkative!" said he when he could check-rein his cachinatory colt; "I found her anything but that, I tell you. I never knew the lady when she lived in town, but a more taciturn body I never saw than I found her."

"Indeed!" I remarked; "then there must have been a change, truly."

"I met Somers in the depot," continued Burner, "and he was very glad to see me, inquiring after his old friends, and you with the rest. Through all his joy, however, I saw that there was a vein of sadness; and when I alluded to his family he appeared embarrassed, and disposed to change the subject. I had no object in view in visiting Ramshead, other than the change of scene, and did not intend to remain there but a day or two; but meeting Somers led me to think that it would not be a bad thing to tarry there awhile, seeing that there was a beautiful pond of water in the vicinity, as I had seen from the cars as I came along, and a deep wood denoting game. Somers used to be great on those things you know. I hinted at our former sporting practices, and mentioned my half formed resolution to stay; but instead of manifesting any interest in the subject, he sighed deeply, and replied:

"'Burner, I haven't taken a pole in my hand nor put a gun to my shoulder for five long years, and I never shall again.'

I looked at him with astonishment, but I knew that he was sincere. I fancied that I saw a tear in his intelligent eye, and my heart drew stronger towards him than ever. I then quite resolved to stay, and ordered the porter of the hotel to carry my baggage—my valise and gun up to the house, which was close by. My rod came I carried in my hand. Taking Somers on my arm, we followed the porter, and a few moments later found us seated in my room with a little rummer of claret negus between us, an excellent lubricator for a dusty day.

"Well, how are you prospering, Somers?" I said, wishing to penetrate, if possible, the mystery that enshrouded him, deeming that it might be some business difficulty in which he was involved.

"Doing capitally," he replied; "haven't lost a dollar since I came here. People have nicknamed me 'Lucky Tom.' How wrongly people judge in measuring men."

"What do you mean by that?" said I, as I saw the cloud creep over his face, as you have, while standing on the mountains, seen a shadow flitting across the meadow.

"I mean," said he, "that in measuring us, they take but one feature into the account, and upon that base a hypothesis of happiness, or luck, as the case may be."

"Are you not happy?" I asked, in a tone calculated to win his confidence.

"I am far from it," he replied; "indeed, a more miserable man is not to be found in these parts."

"In what regard?"

"My wife is dumb," he almost sobbed in answer to my question.

"Dumb!" I repeated; and thinking to rally him, said in a jocular manner, "well that is a very singular thing to be sad for; I know many husbands who would be too happy to have such a calamity happen to them.—Burns says, 'An auld wife's tongue's a freckless matter,' and there's no contention in a house where perpetual silence is the bond of unity!"

I saw that he was hurt, and hastened to remedy the evil that I had done. Taking him by the hand, I said:

"Tim, I assure you I would not wound your feelings willingly. I am no less your friend than I ever was, and no less worthy of your confidence. Now I wish you to tell me the cause of your trouble, that I may share it with you, or possibly alleviate it."

He hesitated a few moments, and then said, with considerable emotion:

"Well, Burner, old friendship is stirring within me, and I shall do at its prompting that which I thought nothing could wring from me. You remember how happy I was. There was not a man in the world who had more friends, than I had. My home was a happy one—my wife pleasant, my children handsome and intelligent. You never saw my wife, Burner?"

My name in the connection, sounded like an imprecation upon his wife, and the Burner a wrathful expletive—"burn her." Somers continued:

"When we moved up here things went on in pretty much the same pleasant way until there came to the village a lady whom I had formerly known, and about whom and me there had been a little gossip in old days. Our acquaintance was renewed, and I visited her several times; made no concealment of my intimacy with her, and invited my wife to accompany me, but she declined. She wished to make no new acquaintances, she said. There was a frequent visitor at my house—a relative of my wife's—who poisoned her ears with suspicions that it was not right between May Brennon and myself.—She repeated the old gossip, with additions, spoke of my visits to Miss Brennon, and hinted at criminality, as the nasty-minded class always will, who have small virtues in their own, and depraved fancies, conjure up impure conceits regarding their neighbors, imputing lasciviousness and wrong where the strictest purity might not see occasion to blush. I was returning home one summer evening, on foot, having spent the day in business at a town a few miles from this, when, by a strange chance, a short distance from town I met Miss Brennon. It was a pure accident that brought us together, and she turned back with me, taking my arm. We walked slowly, as the weather was warm, and stopped a moment on the rustic bridge yonder to look down into the stream and say a few pleasant words about old times. I saw some one pass by us as we stood there, but was indifferent as to whom it might be, and bidding my companion good-by I went home, as happy as a lord in anticipation of meeting the ones there that I loved so well. I met with a cold reception. My bane was sitting with my wife in counsel, sup I had rend judgment on the face that had too many times lately turned unkindly towards me.

Money Matters.

General business is quiet, and therefore there is comparatively little doing in the money market. The Banks are doing pretty much all the discount business, good paper being easily negotiated at the legal rate. The selling rate of Eastern Exchange still remains at 1½ per cent, with a supply fully equal to the demand.

EARNINGS of the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad for December:

Passengers	11,378,66	20,206,58

NEW YORK MONEY AND STOCK MARKET.—The following is the New York Money and Stock Market of to-day, as reported by telegraph:

There was considerable agitation in the stock market to-day, accompanied with an increased fall in prices—one department of the list exempting the depression, which has assumed a more aggravated form than at any other for the past 6 months. The depreciation of Erie is astonishing is itself for the most part, to the stringency in money—the effect of the recommendation of Gov. Morgan to vote the Railroads bankrupt, is unanswered. At the first impulse, the N. Y. C. sold at 96½, but as business proceeded, the pressure to sell became very strong, and the price went to 73½, from which there is no recovery, as a further fall to 93—leaving a decline of 2 per cent from the best price yesterday.

The sales of all the speculative shares for cash were large, especially for Chi. & R. I., Gal. & Chi., and Erie. The transactions in the latter, including time bargains, reached about 5,000 shares. Ill. Cen. and Hudson River were comparatively steady, only ½@¾ per ct. below yesterday's prices. The State stocks are ¼ per cent lower. Sterling is 9 15-16@9 per ct—being quoted at 9 3-16 exchange and interest on R. R. bonds are weaker. Most descriptions, however, are without change. The loans at the Erie are ¾ per cent to-day. The ruling feature in money market continues, and the pressure is in no degree abated. The demand from all quarters to-day is strong, and 7 per cent is the ruling rate for 1st class loans. Little progress can be made in the Stock Exchange short bills. The closing business to-day showed a heavy market, and strong sales of best bills at selling rates at 1,000; frames rule 5,000 @7,000. At the 2d board the changes were not important, but prices favored the buyers. N. Y. C. fell off ½; Mich. So. ½; Mich. So. guar. ½; Panama rose ½; C. & R. I. ½; C. & C. 3s ½; I. C. 50s ½; Reading ½; Michigan Cen. ½; N. Y. C. ½; Canton 1½; N. Y. State 5s ½; Mo. 6s ½.

Commercial.

Receipts by Railroad for the 24 hours ending noon to-day include:

Flour, bbls	573	Hogs, No	462
Wheat, bus	6,661	Sheep, No	675
Barley, bus	40	Poultry, lbs	699
Barley, bus	145	Grass Seed, lbs	1,500

The amount of flour and wheat in store at the warehouses and mills in this city at the present date compared with the stock of these articles on hand on the first of January last year, is as follows:

	Jan. 1st 1860.	Jan. 1st 1859.	Increase.
Flour, bbls	7,000	1,787	5,213
Wheat, bus	1,266,387	314,200	40,213

The wheat market opened quite actively to-day at an advance of 1c, but subsequently receded to yesterday's prices, buyers refusing to pay more than $1,08 for No. 1 on the track, and $1,06 for Extra delivered. Sellers, however, would not accede to the decline, and we heard of no transactions below the figures ruling in the early part of the day, which were: $1,01@1,02 for No. 2; $1,05@1,06 for Club, and $1,06@@1,07 for Extra. Nothing of any account done in flour. Coarse grain quiet and without change. Dressed hogs were firm, and the market was soon cleaned at a range of $5,90@6 00 for averages of 170 to 217 lbs, and one round lot averaging 252 lbs went as high as $6,12½.—Receipts to-day amount to 41,000. Provisions are firm, especially hog products. There were sales to-day of 250 bbls mess at 7½c for this month's delivery at seller's option, and 100 bbls of lard, E. Rumbs' brand, at 9½c—prices outside figure.
